Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 02 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Clear, cold evening. Cloud thickening later, with rain. Milder Friday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Cold evening, with clear spells and perhaps a brief frost developing. Turning less cold as cloud increases from the west after midnight, however. Rain and drizzle then spreading east, likely reaching all parts by dawn. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Friday:
Overcast with outbreaks of rain and drizzle through the morning. Turning drier by the afternoon, but staying rather cloudy. Further rain possible across southwestern parts into the evening. Feeling milder. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Chilly weekend with sunshine and showers. Strong winds Saturday night into Sunday. Cloud and rain, chance of brief hill snow, spreading east early Monday, clearing to sunny spells.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.